CHAMPAGNE
AGRAPART
AVIZE

Agrapart

100% Organic production.

Incredibly low dosages, most in the range of 4-5 grams per liter.

No machinery in the vineyards. (See Venus on the cover sheet)

Has only one vineyard outside of the Grand Cru villages, the rest of his fruit is 100% Grand Cru.

Very lean and tightly-wound style, this is easily the "geekiest" of our producers, for those who want "chalk in a glass"! Among the best expressions of the soils of Champagne you will ever have in a glass.

GATINOIS

Gatinois

The Gatinois family can trace their winemaking heritage in the Grand Cru village of Ay back 12 generations. They own 17 acres of vineyards, divided up into 29 different parcels. Production is roughly 50,000 bottles per year.

The Cuvée Tradition is 90% Pinot noir & 10% Chardonnay. The rosé is mostly Pinot noir with a little Chardonnay blended in. There is no inoculation - only naturally occurring yeast start the fermentations. There is no oak used. As Pierre always said, "Oak is an artifice that everyone uses today to make something different, yet they all end up making something very similar!"

Whatever fruit Gatinois does not use is sold exclusively to their next-door neighbor, Bollinger (and they only use it for their Tete de Cuvée, Grand Anne). You can be sure that Gatinois is not selling better fruit to Bollinger than what they are keeping for their own wines.

MOUZON LEROUX
& FILS

Mouzon Leroux

New to the book this season and expected to land before year end, this is a Champagne grower we're excited to bring on. Sébastien Mouzon farms his family's estate in the Grand Cru village of Verzy, on the Montagne de Reims, with certified organic and biodynamic practices. Low-intervention winemaking, native yeasts and low dosages so chalk and Pinot can really sing.

L'Atavique is the estate's signature blend; L'Ascendant and L'Angélique round out the lineup.

LARMANDIER-BERNIER

Larmandier-Bernier

Certified Biodynamic.

A simple but demanding recipe for great Champagne: old vines, working the soil, moderate yields, no fertilizer and mature grapes picked by hand. In the winery: natural and spontaneous primary and malolactic fermentations. Aged on the lees for a full year before racking and transferring to bottle for the secondary fermentation, then another 2 years in bottle before hand-disgorgement. Never more than 5 GPL sugar in the final dosage. This labor-intensive process yields spectacular Champagnes with a remarkable level of power, depth and finesse all at once.

Laurent Lequart
RÉCOLTANT À PASSY-GRIGNY

Laurent Lequart

Practicing organic; HVE-certified Sustainable.

Laurent Lequart is a 4th generation grower in Passy-Grigny in the Marne, producing fewer than 6000 cases annually, and almost entirely focused on Pinot Meunier (roughly 80% of their production). Hand-harvested, full malolactic fermentations and long aging on lees (30-72 months). The wines are uniquely stunning, from profile to price.

JACQUES SELOSSE

Selosse

When Anselme Selosse started making wine in the 1980s, he developed the then-radical philosophy that any great Champagne must first be a great wine. The brilliance of his mind, and the deftness of his touch, is mirrored in every bottle he's ever made. About 5 years ago, Anselme passed the baton to a young winemaker widely regarded as a genius: his son, Guillaume. With roughly 50k bottles produced annually, these wines are truly as rare as they are exceptional, earning their status as one of the great cult Champagne producers.

CHAMPAGNE R.H. COUTIER A AMBONNAY

R.H. Coutier

Certified Sustainable.

Founded in 1882 by Rene's Grandfather, the Coutier family can trace their winemaking heritage back to 1619! Coutier was the first to plant Chardonnay in the Grand Cru village of Ambonnay.

The Cuvée is 60% Pinot Noir and 40% Chardonnay. No oak is ever used; Cuvee is dosed at 5 GPL; only half of the still wines see malolactic fermentation. In Four Thousand Champagnes, Richard Juhlin gives R. H. Coutier a well-deserved 4-star rating, and calls Rene "The Uncrowned King of Ambonnay".

VOIRIN-JUMEL
★★★

Voirin-Jumel

Fourth-generation winegrowers and 3rd generation winemakers with 27 acres centered around the Grand Cru village of Cramant in the northern Côte Blancs. Most of the portfolio are 100% Chardonnay, (with the exception of one small vineyard outside of Cramant that is 100% Pinot Noir that they use to make their small-production Blanc de noir). The wines are a softer, creamier style than our other Côte blancs producers. Our most all-encompassing Champagne in terms of style. Classic toast on the nose, lemon chess pie flavors in the mid-palate and a lovely, long dry finish showing more fresh lemons.

Bott-Geyl

Christian Bott makes this wine from purchased fruit (which he only buys from growers that farm organically and pick by hand). It is a blend of Pinot Blanc, Chardonnay & Pinot noir (vinified as a white wine). The wine spends 24 months on the lees after the secondary fermentation (before disgorgement), and is bottled with less than 5 grams per liter of sugar. It is bone dry, and while it shows the depth of great Alsatian wine, is still very light on its feet.

Domaine Huet

The Petillant Brut from this legendary estate is made by the Methode Ancestrale, from younger vines in all three of their most famous vineyards: Le Haut-Lieu, Le Mont & Clos du Bourg, considered by many to be among the greatest vineyards in all of Vouvray. Bottled while there is still some sugar to finish its fermentation in the bottle, resulting in a gently bubbly wine. After 3+ years in the bottle, the wines are disgorged and given a balancing dosage (~10g/l) from a great Huet Moelleux or 1er Trie.

Mas de Daumas Gassac

From one of the most esteemed estates in the Languedoc. The sparkling rosé is a blend of Cabernet sauvignon and Mourvèdre, free-run juice fermented in steel tanks for a lively, fruit-forward bubbly. The Folie (actually, “Foliiiie”) is a blanc de blanc from 100% Chardonnay, aged on lees and showing minerality on the palate with a note of grapefruit zest.

Perrachon

Crémant de Bourgogne is a "Blanc de Blanc", which means that it is made exclusively with the juice of white grapes. Laurent has selected a portion of his Chardonnay vineyard for this wine. He makes the first "cuvée" himself in the cellars of the Domaine de la Bottière. He uses all his expertise to build the wine structure: its body, its acidity, its refined palate. He then trusts this wine to an elaborator, who oversees the secondary bottle fermentation, which takes around 9 months. You will find all the subtlety of the Chardonnay in this Crémant Blanc de Blanc. Bold, fresh nose, subtle palate with flowery notes, slightly lemony and vibrant acidity.

COLESEL
VALDOBBIADENE

Colesel

This is a recent addition to our portfolio, from the prestigious Valdobbiadene region at the foot of the Dolomites, with some vines in the legendary Cartizze vineyards. The Prato Scuro Brut is a mind-blower - way more refined and elegant than most of the Prosecco available in the U.S. market.

Made exclusively from Glera grapes grown on double-arched cane trained vines, it represents the finest tradition of the region. The grapes are carefully harvested between September 10-30th, with max yields of 6 tons per acre to ensure optimal concentration of flavors. The wine undergoes a delicate white vinification process with soft pressing to preserve its aromatic qualities. Primary fermentation happens in temperature-controlled steel tanks, followed by a 30-day secondary fermentation using the Charmat method. The wine is then matured for 1-2 months before bottling.

With just 8 g/l of residual sugar, this Brut style Prosecco offers a refreshing profile balanced by 5.8 g/l of acidity and 11% ABV.

PROSECCO

Tocco Prosecco

Prior to the founding of winery I Magredi in 1968, the site was planted to apple and peach orchards. In 1989, Michelangelo Tombacco Treviso began planting vineyards. The soil is unusually stony reminiscent of the New Zealand vineyards in the Gimblett Gravels region. It's still a family winery today, but because we direct import the wine we can offer a better quality Prosecco than the co-op stuff that most of the competition sells in this price range.

Palladiano Durello

The Durello grape is local to the Veneto region, grown on the volcanic hillsides of Monti Lessini. The name of the grape refers to the small, late-maturing berries (Duro = hard). Durello's naturally high acidity produces complex, long lived wines. Production of Durello Spumante is mostly in the hands of a few small growers, and the variety is well-suited to the production of fresh, zesty, tank-method wines such as this sparkler from Palladiano. Aged for 2-3 months on lees. Citrus and gently floral aromas and a zippy palate with crisp green apple and lightly honeyed characters.

Elio Perrone

Stefano Perrone is descended from a long line of grape growers in Castiglione Tinella, the heart of Asti. When he took over the family estate, he began by pursuing lower yields and eliminating artificial fertilizers and pesticides in his vineyards. He focused on harvesting at just the right moment, always seeking to achieve greater freshness and balance in his wines, gradually earning a reputation as one of the appellation's premier producers.

Virginia

Michael Shaps

Fruit sourced entirely from Well Hung Vineyards in Virginia, which are situated perfectly to provide excellent conditions for Cabernet Franc. Higher elevation and well drained soil allow for the grapes to retain bright acidity, and the south-eastern exposure gives maximum sunlight to help ripen the fruit to maturity. Methode Champenoise. Bright floral notes and citrus are prevalent on the nose, while brioche and vanilla round out the finish. Elevated acidity is balanced out by a soft mousse from the fine bubbles which makes for a wonderful combination of richness and edge.
